

NC - Troutman Grange tops 1,500 dictionaries
Submitted by Gay Shaver

In September, Troutman Grange #1292 of North Carolina, completed two service projects involving the local elementary school.

The Grange provided dictionaries as part of the Words for Thirds program, taking their total to more than 1,500 dictionaries donated in the 11 years they've participated in the program. They also gave more than 200 boxes of crayons, markers and colored pencils to the school's art teacher during their visit.

Members Gloria Troutman, left, Kellee Payne, second left, and Leigh Payne, right, show off supplies donated by Troutman Grange to elementary art teacher Allison Levis, second from right.

Members Gloria Troutman, left, Kellee Payne, second left, and Leigh Payne, right, show off supplies donated by Troutman Grange to elementary art teacher Allison Levis, second from right.

Troutman Elementary School students, standing front row from left, Caroline Paslay, Harrison Sherrill and Alden Bellmann, along with their teacher, Kammie Harris, left back row, graciously accept dictionaries provided by Troutman Grange members, back row starting second left, Gloria Troutman, Kellee Payne and Leigh Payne.